About The Lutheran Library

The Lutheran Library is a non-profit publisher of good Christian books. All are available in a variety of formats for use by anyone for free or at very little cost. There are never any licensing fees.

We are Bible believing Christians who subscribe wholeheartedly to the Augsburg Confession as an accurate summary of Scripture, the chief article of which is Justification by Faith. Our purpose is to make available solid and encouraging material to strengthen believers in Christ.

Prayers are requested for the next generation, that the Lord will plant in them a love of the truth, such that the hard-learned lessons of the past will not be forgotten.

Please let others know of these books and this completely volunteer endeavor. May God bless you and keep you, help you, defend you, and lead you to know the depths of His kindness and love.

Preface

THIS LITTLE BOOK pretends to be nothing more than a primer of Bible-reading.

Actual experiment has proved the need and usefulness of such directions as are here given. For a year, week by week, these studies were printed in the columns of The Christian Endeavor World. A call was made for the names of all that would undertake to read the Bible through in accordance with this plan during the year; and without advertisement or urging, more than nine thousand sent in their names. Hundreds and even thousands of these expressed themselves as thankful for the plan, and said that, though they had often proposed reading the Bible through and had frequently set out upon the task, this plan had furnished just the stimulus and aid needed to spur them to its completion.

These Bible-readers were in all parts of America and in many foreign lands. Indeed, the course was translated into several foreign tongues.

Pastors induced their churches to take up the work, Families read the Bible thus together, Sunday-school teachers used the plan as an incentive to their classes for regular home Bible-reading and study. Some that had never read the Bible for three days in succession, completed the entire course. Some in their eagerness got far ahead, and read the Bible through twice in the year.

The plan was found useful in prisons. Ministers of the gospel testified that even to them it had opened up fresh gospel truth. "The Bible has become a new book to me," was a frequent message.

Though it was understood that the themes for daily meditation suggested by the daily Scripture reading, as well as the hints for further study, were entirely optional, an unexpectedly large number wrote me that they were adding both to their Bible-reading, and found in both great profit.

These suggestions for further study, it will be understood, do not pretend to anything like completeness or scholarship. They are part of a primer, and merely point out a great variety of simple researches that will throw light upon the Bible, and bind its portions more closely together in the mind.

AMOS R. WELLS.

Boston, November, 1899.

The First Week

Sections for Daily Reading

- SUNDAY – Genesis, chapters 1, 2, 3. Creation.
- MONDAY – Genesis, chapters 4, 5, 6, 7. Noah.
- TUESDAY. – Genesis, chapters 8, 9, 10, 11. Babel.
- WEDNESDAY – Genesis, chapters 12, 13, 14, 15, 16. Abraham.
- THURSDAY – Genesis, chapters 17, 18, 19. Lot.
- FRIDAY – Genesis, chapters 20, 21, 22, 23. Abraham.
- SATURDAY – Genesis, chapters 24, 25. Isaac.

Genesis

The book of Genesis covers more time than all the rest of the Bible put together. “Genesis” means “beginning; it is a book of origins. The first five books of the Bible are called the Pentateuch, a word which means “five books.” If Joshua is included, the section is called the Hexateuch. The Hebrew Bible names the books of the Pentateuch from their first words. The name of this book, therefore, is in Hebrew, “In the beginning.” The Pentateuch is “The Book of the Law,” or Torah. The author of Genesis is Moses, who probably made use of earlier documents, but who, under divine inspiration, bound them all together into an authentic history.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – How great and good is God!
- MONDAY – How hateful and terrible is sin!
- TUESDAY. – How God rebukes human pride. (Babel.)
- WEDNESDAY – The greatness that comes from obedience.
- THURSDAY – The mischief of worldliness.

- FRIDAY – How God may be testing me.
- SATURDAY – The rewards of simple kindness. (Rebecca at the well.)

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – The remarkable correspondence between the Bible order of creation and that disclosed by geology.
- MONDAY – How the modern races are divided in descent from Noah's three sons.
- TUESDAY. – The most significant names in chapter 10. Look them up in the Bible dictionary.
- WEDNESDAY – The geography of Abraham's journeys.
- THURSDAY – References, in other parts of the Bible, to the great covenant with Abraham.
- FRIDAY – Correspondences between the sacrifice of Isaac and that of Christ.
- SATURDAY – Go over these twenty-five chapters, underscoring in each a significant word or two that may stand as the title of the chapter.

The Second Week

Sections for Daily Reading

- SUNDAY – Genesis, chapters 26, 27. Jacob and Esau.
- MONDAY – Genesis, chapters 28, 29, 30. Jacob and Laban.
- TUESDAY. – Genesis, chapters 31, 32. Jacob and the angel.
- WEDNESDAY – Genesis, chapters 33, 34, 35, 36. Jacob.
- THURSDAY – Genesis, chapters 37, 38, 39. Joseph sold.
- FRIDAY – Genesis, chapters 40, 41. Joseph and Pharaoh.
- SATURDAY – Genesis, chapters 42, 43, 44. Joseph and his brethren.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – How am I my brother’s keeper?
- MONDAY – God’s angels are round about me.
- TUESDAY. – Am I opposing my will to God’s?
- WEDNESDAY – Are there any whom I need to forgive?
- THURSDAY – How envy will make me a murderer at heart.
- FRIDAY – Do I lack wisdom? Whence it comes.
- SATURDAY – God controls the fortunes of men.

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Other significant Bible names such as “Jacob, the Supplanter.”
- MONDAY – Study the famous Bible dreams, making a list of them.
- TUESDAY. – Other covenants in the Bible, compared with the Mizpah covenant.
- WEDNESDAY – The pillars Jacob set up, and similar memorials throughout the Bible.
- THURSDAY – Are the brothers the Bible tells about, on the whole, to be imitated or shunned as examples?
- FRIDAY – Compare this with the dream Daniel interpreted.
- SATURDAY – Go through the week’s readings, underscoring in each a significant word or phrase that may stand as the title of the chapter.

The Third Week

Sections for Daily Reading

- SUNDAY – Genesis, chapters 45, 46, 47. Joseph’s power.
- MONDAY – Genesis, chapters 48, 49, 50. Jacob’s death.
- TUESDAY. – Review. Genesis deals chiefly with six men. Mark in your Bible the place where each of these six biographies begins. Go over the book of Genesis marking the passages that you will wish to refer to most often, because they are most helpful.

- WEDNESDAY – Exodus, chapters 1, 2, 3, 4. Moses. Read the introduction to the book, given below.
- THURSDAY – Exodus, chapters 5, 6, 7, 8. Plagues.
- FRIDAY – Exodus, chapters 9, 10, 11. Plagues.
- SATURDAY – Exodus, chapters 12, 13, 14. Passover.

Exodus

With this week we begin a new book. Exodus, crowded with Egyptian words and ideas and with terms taken from the wilderness journeys, could have been written by no one of a later time than Moses, its great author. Its name is taken from the Greek translation, the Septuagint, and means “the going out” (from Egypt). It is divided into three parts: (1) Chapters 1-18, history; (2) chapters 19-24, laws; (3) chapters 25-40, worship. The book paints in a masterly way the beginnings of a nation.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – How am I honoring my father and mother?
- MONDAY – What kind of death-bed am I preparing for myself?
- TUESDAY. – How can I gain for my life Abraham’s courageous faithfulness, Jacob’s zeal, Joseph’s wisdom?
- WEDNESDAY – God has a message for me to give. Am I proclaiming it?
- THURSDAY – How my troubles are caused by my sins.
- FRIDAY – Am I persisting in any known sin, like Pharaoh?
- SATURDAY – Christ my Passover. Is he really this to me?

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Look ahead, by means of a concordance, and note some of the influences of Egypt over the Hebrews’ later history.
- MONDAY – The fulfillment of the prophecies contained in Jacob’s last words.
- TUESDAY. – Sum up, in two or three words each, the characters of the six men of Genesis: Adam, Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph.
- WEDNESDAY – Look up the localities mentioned in to-day’s chapters.

- THURSDAY – Evidences lately found (see Bible dictionary) of the actual work of the Hebrews in Egypt.
- FRIDAY – Study (in Bible dictionary) the natural forces of which God may have made use in performing these miracles.
- SATURDAY – Go over these fourteen chapters, marking in each a characteristic word or two that may stand as the title of the chapter.

The Fourth Week

Sections for Daily Reading

- SUNDAY – Exodus, chapters 15, 16, 17, 18. Manna
- MONDAY – Exodus, chapters 19, 20, 21. Sinai.
- TUESDAY. – Exodus, chapters 22, 23, 24. Laws.
- WEDNESDAY – Exodus, chapters 25, 26, 27. Tabernacle.
- THURSDAY – Exodus, chapters 28, 29. Priesthood.
- FRIDAY – Exodus, chapters 30, 31, 32. Idolatry.
- SATURDAY – Exodus, chapters 33, 34, 35. Forgiveness.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – God will always provide for his children.
- MONDAY – Do I keep the spirit of each of the Ten Commandments?
- TUESDAY. – How I am to get up in the Mount with God.
- WEDNESDAY – What is my real heart attitude toward God’s sanctuary?
- THURSDAY – How I, as God’s priest, may bear the mystic sign, “Holiness to the Lord.”
- FRIDAY – The gold calves before which I worship.
- SATURDAY – What offerings for his service does God want me to give him?

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Read the Bible-dictionary account of manna.
- MONDAY – Look up Christ’s teachings with regard to each of the Ten Commandments.
- TUESDAY. – Consider how each of these laws was suited to the especial condition of the Hebrews at that time.
- WEDNESDAY – Read the Bible-dictionary account of the construction and contents of the Tabernacle.
- THURSDAY – Study, in the Bible dictionary, the ephod, breastplate, and Urim and Thummim.
- FRIDAY – Investigate the question of taxes among the Hebrews.
- SATURDAY – Go through the twenty-one chapters read this week, marking in each some characteristic word or phrase that will serve as a title for the chapter.

The Fifth Week

Sections for Daily Reading

- SUNDAY – Exodus, chapters 36, 37, 38. Tabernacle.
- MONDAY – Exodus, chapters 39, 40. Dedication.
- TUESDAY. – Review. Mark in your Bibles the four divisions of the book: Slavery (chapters 1-6); Salvation (chapters 7-18); Sinai (chapters 19-34); Service (chapters 35-40) . Run your eye over the book, and mark in the margin all passages that you think likely to be of especial helpfulness to you in the future.
- WEDNESDAY – Leviticus, chapters 1, 2, 3, 4. Offerings: burnt, meal, peace, sin. (Read the introduction to the book given below.)
- THURSDAY – Leviticus, chapters 5, 6, 7. Trespass offerings.
- FRIDAY – Leviticus, chapters 8, 9, 10. Consecration and desecration.
- SATURDAY – Leviticus, chapters 11, 12, 13. Clean and unclean.

Leviticus

This book is so named because it is chiefly made up of directions for the Levites given by Moses, and to him by God on Mount Sinai. There are only three bits of narrative in the book: the consecration of the priests, the story of Nadab and Abihu, and the stoning of the blasphemer. The time covered is only one month. The book contains one priceless verse, the “second commandment” that Christ quoted. Its laws may seem at first without much meaning for us, but the more we study them, the more we are filled with admiration for their strong common sense; and when we go still deeper, we see in them the most wonderful and inspiring foregleams of gospel truths.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – How may I adorn God’s most sacred temple, my own soul?
- MONDAY – Have I God’s actual presence in my soul? If not, why not?
- TUESDAY. – The bondage in which I am still held, and how I may get out of my Egypt.
- WEDNESDAY – How great are my sins!
- THURSDAY – Christ is my sacrifice for sin. What do I owe him in return?
- FRIDAY – Am I offering strange fire on God’s altar?
- SATURDAY – Is my daily life so ordered as to contribute to holiness?

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Draw for your Bible a careful plan of the Tabernacle, putting each article in its proper place.
- MONDAY – In connection with the breastplate, it will be of interest to look up the Bible mention of precious stones.
- TUESDAY. – Make a list of the characteristics of that greatest of men, Moses, as disclosed in this book.
- WEDNESDAY – Distinguish among these various offerings, (1) their purposes; (2) their manner.
- THURSDAY – Draw up a table of these five kinds of offerings, reducing the matter to its simplest terms.
- FRIDAY – Compare the case of Nadab and Abihu with other cases of desecration mentioned in the Bible.
- SATURDAY – Consider the reasons for the Mosaic restrictions as to food, and learn their consequences in the health of the Jews.

The Sixth Week

Sections for Daily Reading

- SUNDAY – Leviticus, chapters 14, 15. Leprosy.
- MONDAY – Leviticus, chapters 16, 17, 18. The scapegoat.
- TUESDAY. – Leviticus, chapters 19, 20, 21. Wise laws.
- WEDNESDAY – Leviticus, chapters 22, 23, 24. Feasts.
- THURSDAY – Leviticus, chapters 25, 26. Jubilee.
- FRIDAY – Leviticus, chapter 27 and review. Go through the book, marking plainly in your Bibles the beginning of each of the six divisions; namely, (1) Offerings (chapters 1-7); (2) Priesthood (chapters 8-10); (3) Cleanliness (chapters 11-16); (4) Holiness (chapters 17-22); (5) Feasts (chapter 23); (6) Laws (Chapters 24-27). Pass rapidly over these chapters, and mark in the margin any passage likely to prove helpful to you hereafter.
- SATURDAY – Numbers, chapters 1, 2. A census.

Numbers

The book takes its name from the two censuses, the one at the beginning and the other at the end of the wanderings in the wilderness. The length of time described is thirty-eight years and three months. The point of closest contact with the New Testament is the marvelously beautiful episode of the brazen serpent. The book records many fragments of ancient poetry, such as the “Song of the Weir” (21:17, 18). The story of Numbers is one of sin and punishment, of murmuring and rebuke, of presumption and postponement. It is a sad book, and yet full of hope.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – The leprosy of sin: is it growing upon me?
- MONDAY – How I may lay my sins on Christ.
- TUESDAY. – Do I love my neighbor as myself? (Leviticus 19: 18.)

- WEDNESDAY – How may I make my Sabbaths genuine festivals of joy before God?
- THURSDAY – How many of the curses of chapter 26 do I deserve?
- FRIDAY – Am I giving to God as much as the tithe? Should I?
- SATURDAY – What place would be assigned me in the mustering of God’s true Israel?

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Read the Bible-dictionary account of the various diseases comprehended in the Bible under the term, “leprosy.”
- MONDAY – Look back over what we have read, and note how often there comes up the idea of atonement for sin through means outside the sinner.
- TUESDAY. – Review these three chapters, considering how many of these laws are still needed by the world.
- WEDNESDAY – Read the Bible-dictionary account of the Jewish year.
- THURSDAY – Write down in your Bible all the advantages you can think of that sprung from the year of jubilee.
- FRIDAY – It would be a most valuable exercise to go over the whole of Leviticus, marking in some way every provision that has been outgrown by the changed conditions of the world. Consider the spirit of each law, of course, rather than its formal details, and you will be astonished to see how little you have had to mark.
- SATURDAY – Get an idea of the size of the tribes by drawing squares proportioned to the numbers of each. Put this drawing on a blank page of your Bible.

The Seventh Week

Sections for Daily Reading

- SUNDAY – Numbers, chapters 3, 4. Levites.

- MONDAY – Numbers, chapters 5, 6. Lepers and Nazarites.
- TUESDAY. – Numbers, chapters 7, 8. Princely offerings.
- WEDNESDAY – Numbers, chapters 9, 10, 11. The quails.
- THURSDAY – Numbers, chapters 12, 13, 14. Caleb.
- FRIDAY – Numbers, chapters 15, 16. Korah.
- SATURDAY – Numbers, chapters 17, 18, 19. Aaron's rod.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – May God show me some practical way in which, like the Levites, I may minister in his house!
- MONDAY – How I ought to separate myself, like the Nazarites, to the Lord.
- TUESDAY. – Have I really dedicated my possessions to God? How can I do it?
- WEDNESDAY – How God has borne with my foolish complainings.
- THURSDAY – What land has God set before me for conquest? Am I a Caleb toward this task?
- FRIDAY – God's terrible hatred of sin; am I provoking it?
- SATURDAY – My work is dead, like Aaron's rod; but God can easily bring it to blossom and fruitage.

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Write in appropriate places on your plan of the Tabernacle the names of the divisions of the Levites that had charge of each portion. Compare this account with modern ideas of the pastorate.
- MONDAY – Study the famous Nazarites of the Bible, making a list of them. See Bible dictionary.
- TUESDAY. – Study the shekel, and make an estimate of the value of these gifts.
- WEDNESDAY – Study the references in the rest of the Bible to the pillar of cloud and fire.
- THURSDAY – Get from the Bible dictionary a comprehensive notion of the Holy Land at this time– the people that inhabited it and their disposition over the country. Investigate the reference to “giants.”
- FRIDAY – Study the offences for which in Bible times the penalty of stoning was imposed.

- SATURDAY – Study the various gifts which the people were commanded to give for the support of their representatives, the Levites. Consider how well these would support them.

The Eighth Week

Sections for Daily Reading

- SUNDAY – Numbers, chapters 20, 21, 22. The brazen serpent.
- MONDAY – Numbers, chapters 23, 24, 25, 26. Balaam.
- TUESDAY. – Numbers, chapters 27, 28, 29. Joshua.
- WEDNESDAY – Numbers, chapters 30, 31, 32. Vows and conquest.
- THURSDAY – Numbers, chapters 33, 34, 35. Cities of refuge.
- FRIDAY – Numbers, chapter 36, and review.
- SATURDAY – Deuteronomy, chapters 1. 2. Reminiscence. Read the account of Deuteronomy given below.

Deuteronomy

This great book is chiefly made up of three addresses by Moses just before the entrance into the Holy Land: (1) chapters 1 to 4:40. a rehearsal of God’s goodness; (2) chapters 5 to 26, a review of the law, for the ears of this second generation; (3) chapters 27 to 30, a renewal of the covenant. It is from section 2 that the book takes its name, “the second law.” Deuteronomy closes with the final scenes in the life of the great lawgiver, these portions being necessarily written by another hand than his. Note while reading the book the many striking prophecies, the passage that Christ quotes as the chief of all the commandments, and the three sentences with which Christ frustrated Satan’s three temptations. Note, too, the grandeur of the style and the magnificence and force of the appeals.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – A life for a look! How am I looking to Jesus?
- MONDAY – Am I using to the full for Christ my power of speech?
- TUESDAY. – Moses’ sin kept him from the Promised Land. Is any sin of mine keeping me from such joy?
- WEDNESDAY – What vows have I taken upon myself? Am I faithful to them?
- THURSDAY – Christ is my city of refuge. What need have I to flee to him?
- FRIDAY – My Christian inheritance: what it is. Am I in danger of losing it?
- SATURDAY – Before what Anakim am I cowering?

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Look up the references in the New Testament to the brazen serpent and the water of Meribah.
- MONDAY – Find the interesting references to Balaam in the rest of the Bible, both Old and New Testaments.
- TUESDAY. – Study the thought of atonement in chapters 28 and 29.
- WEDNESDAY – Consider the sanitary and moral reasons for the stern provisions of chapter 31.
- THURSDAY – Study with the aid of a map the outline of Israel’s territory as given in chapter 34.
- FRIDAY – Go through the entire book, marking the passages which have chiefly impressed you as worthy to be remembered. You might use red ink to mark those passages that point forward to Christ.
- SATURDAY – Learn from the map the geographical position of the peoples named in these two chapters.

The Ninth Week

Sections for Daily Reading

- SUNDAY – Deuteronomy, chapters 3, 4. Obey God.
- MONDAY – Deuteronomy, chapters 5, 6, 7. The law of worship.
- TUESDAY. – Deuteronomy, chapters 8, 9, 10. A record of rebellion.
- WEDNESDAY – Deuteronomy, chapters 11, 12, 13. The doom of idolaters.
- THURSDAY – Deuteronomy, chapters 14, 15, 16. Food. The poor.
- FRIDAY – Deuteronomy, chapters 17, 18, 19, 20. The coming Prophet.
- SATURDAY – Deuteronomy, chapters 21, 22, 23. Crimes and criminals.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – Am I seeking God. with all my heart? (Deuteronomy 4: 29.)
- MONDAY – Is my bearing what it should be toward those that are not Christians?
- TUESDAY. – By what sins have I rebelled against God?
- WEDNESDAY – How may I uproot idolatry from my life?
- THURSDAY – My duty to those that are poorer than I: am I fulfilling it?
- FRIDAY – Am I hearkening to Christ’s words? (See Deuteronomy 18: 19.)
- SATURDAY – How may I become more faithful to my religious vows? (See Deuteronomy 23: 21-23.)

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Locate on the map Pisgah and the cities of refuge; also look up as many more of the geographical references as you have time for.
- MONDAY – Compare the Ten Commandments as given here with those in Exodus.
- TUESDAY. – Look up some of the later references in the Bible to the table of the law.
- WEDNESDAY – Read some account of the evils of idolatry in the time of Moses.
- THURSDAY – Learn about the animals mentioned in chapter 14.
- FRIDAY – Review the other prophetic hints of Christ that we have come across, similar to that at the close of chapter 18.
- SATURDAY – Basing your inquiry on Deuteronomy 23: 19, 20, learn what the Bible has to say about the lending of money.

The Tenth Week

Sections for Daily Reading

- SUNDAY – Deuteronomy, chapters 24, 25, 26. Marriage. Mercy. Tithes.
- MONDAY – Deuteronomy, chapters 27, 28. Blessings and curses.
- TUESDAY. – Deuteronomy chapters 29, 30, 31. Keep the covenant.
- WEDNESDAY – Deuteronomy, chapters 32, 33, 34. Moses' song, blessing, death.
- THURSDAY – Review. Pass rapidly over the book, marking in the margin the most striking passages, and indicating with red those in any way connected with Christ.
- FRIDAY – Joshua, chapters 1,2,3. Joshua at the Jordan. Read the introduction to the book, given below.
- SATURDAY – Joshua, chapters 4, 5, 6. The fall of Jericho.

Joshua

The book was chiefly written by Joshua, with additions by later historians. It introduces the second division of the Bible, the Historical Books. It describes the conquest and division of Canaan, the renewal of the covenant, the death of Joshua. Part of the book is the spirited recital of heroic deeds; part is occupied with most valuable geographical information.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – I have chosen God, and He me. (Deuteronomy 26: 17-19.)
- MONDAY – My final lot will be blessing or cursing, as I deserve.
- TUESDAY. – Sins of which I need to repent.
- WEDNESDAY – God's goodness; my ingratitude.
- THURSDAY – The majesty of God's law. What is my attitude toward it?
- FRIDAY – God's power can overcome all obstacles for His children.
- SATURDAY – My power lies not in my might, but in my obedience.

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Make a study of the Bible precepts enjoining care of the poor.
- MONDAY – Find Ebal and Gerizim on the map. Learn what other great events occurred in that region.
- TUESDAY. – Look up other references in the Old Testament to this “Book of the Law.” (Deuteronomy 31:9.)
- WEDNESDAY – Analyze the structure of this beautiful poem, and find its central purpose.
- THURSDAY – Consider what portions of Deuteronomy are commentaries and repetitions, and what are original additions to the law.
- FRIDAY – Compare this account with that of the passage of the Red Sea.
- SATURDAY – Study the position of Jericho, and the New Testament references to Rahab and to the fall of Jericho.

The Eleventh Week

Sections for Daily Reading

- SUNDAY – Joshua, chapters 7, 8, 9. The capture of Ai.
- MONDAY – Joshua, chapters 10, 11, 12. The conquest of kings.
- TUESDAY. – Joshua, chapters 13, 14, 15. Caleb honored.
- WEDNESDAY – Joshua, chapters 16, 17, 18, 19. The land apportioned.
- THURSDAY – Joshua, chapters 20, 21, 22. The altar of testimony.
- FRIDAY – Joshua, chapters 23, 24. Joshua's last words.
- SATURDAY – Review rapidly the entire book, marking in the margin the most striking passages. It will be well to give a title to each chapter.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – My disobedience to God will defeat my life.
- MONDAY – No power is too great for me to overcome with God's help.
- TUESDAY. – God will prolong my strength only as I, like Caleb, use it for Him.
- WEDNESDAY – God has some rich inheritance set apart and waiting for me.
- THURSDAY – No good thing (Joshua 21:45) that God promises will ever fail.
- FRIDAY – How little of my blessings are to be credited to myself! (Joshua 24:13.)
- SATURDAY – If I am on God's side, I cannot be defeated.

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Study the other instances given in the Bible where defeat followed disobedience, and victory followed obedience.
- MONDAY – Become familiar with the proper names of this chapter.

- TUESDAY. – Review the story of Caleb, marking with one color all passages referring to him.
- WEDNESDAY – Fix in your mind by means of the map the location of each of the tribes.
- THURSDAY – Mark plainly on the map the Levitical cities and the cities of refuge.
- FRIDAY – Make a study of the farewell addresses given in the Bible.
- SATURDAY – Study the character of Joshua as disclosed in this book, and sum it up, in as few words as possible, in the margin of your Bible.

Judges

This book covers a little more than three centuries of Jewish history. Its authorship is uncertain; Jewish tradition ascribes it to Samuel, although portions belong to earlier times, and a few references must have been incorporated later. The book, with its repeated accounts of idolatry, punishment, and deliverance by men raised up by God, is full of solemn warnings. The story is told of thirteen of these deliverers, reaching from the time of Joshua to that of Samuel.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – Is any stubbornness of mine (2:19) provoking God’s wrath?
- MONDAY – God will deliver my Sisera into my hand.
- TUESDAY. – Would I be one of Gideon’s three hundred?
- WEDNESDAY – Have I chosen (9:8-15) the bramble to be my king?
- THURSDAY – How does my regard for my word compare with Jephthah’s?
- FRIDAY – The enticements Satan weaves around me. My attitude toward them.
- SATURDAY – While so many are in darkness seeking the light, how am I using the full light I have?

 - FRIDAY – 1 Samuel, chapters 11, 12, 13. Saul's sacrifice.
 - SATURDAY – 1 Samuel, chapters 14, 15. Saul's sin.

Ruth

This book is the natural connecting link between the story of the judges and that of the kings. It covers ten years at the close of the judgeship of Eli or the beginning of that of Samuel. The concluding verses would imply that the book was written after the time of David, but probably not long after. Several curious and valuable pieces of information concerning Hebrew customs are given us in this book, but its chief importance is in its picture of David's great-grandmother, the gentle, noble ancestress of our Lord.

First and Second Samuel

These books are really one, and they received their name manifestly not from their author, but because he is the principal character of the first portion. The work consists of three biographies – Samuel's, Saul's, and David's. It is not known when or by whom it was compiled, but the compiler doubtless had access to the books of Samuel, Nathan, and Gad (1 Chronicles 29:29), the official records of the kingdom, and David's personal memoirs.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – I cannot sin without involving many others in my sorrow.
- MONDAY – Am I true to those that have the closest claim upon me?
- TUESDAY. – Let me make my heart so innocent and obedient that God can commune with me.

- WEDNESDAY – God is a holy and jealous God.
- THURSDAY – Is God, or some human being or influence, the supreme ruler of my life?
- FRIDAY – Whole hearted service (chapter 12:24).
- SATURDAY – Am I offering to God any empty excuses for disobedience?

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Go over the book of Judges, marking in some conspicuous way the beginning of the account of each judge, and placing in connection with it a word or two indicative of his or her character.
- MONDAY – Study the rights and duties of kinsmen among the Hebrews, especially with regard to marriage.
- TUESDAY. – Study what is known about the organized worship of the Hebrews at this time.
- WEDNESDAY – Study the various Bible references to the ark of the covenant, especially those concerning its miraculous power.
- THURSDAY – Study the significance of anointing in the Bible, and its manner.
- FRIDAY – Study the accounts throughout the Old Testament of the interference of the royal families with the priests.
- SATURDAY – Find the conspicuous examples in the Bible of the casting of lots.

- FRIDAY – 1 Kings, chapters 9, 10, 11. The Queen of Sheba.
- SATURDAY – 1 Kings, chapters 12, 13. The Great Division.

The Two Books of Kings

The Hebrews originally treated these two books as one, and it was not until the Greek translation, called the Septuagint, was made, that it was broken up into two books. The author refers to “The Acts of Solomon,” and often to two other works, the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah and of Israel. None of these sources of information have survived. The tradition of the Jews is that the books of Kings were written by Jeremiah, and certain portions bear remarkable resemblance to his writings; but much of the books is so vivid that Jeremiah, if he was indeed the compiler, must have used accounts contemporary with the events.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – How happy would David's life have been, but for his sin! Is it not so with mine?
- MONDAY – Self-pushing always comes to grief. Am I guilty of it, in thought or act?
- TUESDAY. – The choices God has offered me, and my selection.

- WEDNESDAY – Am I contributing as I should to the building of the temple in which God now dwells – his church?
- THURSDAY – Have I the feeling with regard to prayer expressed by Solomon in his great prayer?
- FRIDAY – Have I such earnestness in the pursuit of wisdom as the Queen of Sheba showed?
- SATURDAY – The infinite consequences that will follow any sinful deed of mine.

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Study David’s character, and discover why Christ is so often spoken of as “the Son of David,” rather than “of Abraham.”
- MONDAY – Make a study of Zadok, as an indication of the position held by the priesthood in those days.
- TUESDAY. – Find out from the Bible dictionary what is known about Solomon from other sources than the Bible.
- WEDNESDAY – Read in the Bible dictionary the account of the successive temples, and the comparison between them.
- THURSDAY – Compare for an instructive contrast this prayer of Solomon’s with Christ’s in John 17.
- FRIDAY – Find out what you can about the region from which the Queen of Sheba came.
- SATURDAY – Prepare an outline map of the divided kingdom. Place in the lower portion, as we come to them, the names of the successive kings of Judah, and in the upper portion the names of Israel’s kings.

The Books of the Chronicles

The title of the books is taken from the Hebrew, the title in the Septuagint being “The Things Omitted,” implying that the books are intended to supply what was left out of the books of Samuel and the Kings. In the course of the books twelve other histories are named as the author’s sources of information. This author may have been Ezra – a supposition made probable by the fact that the closing passage of 2 Chronicles is identical with the opening passage of Ezra. There are four divisions of the books: genealogies, and the histories of David, Solomon, and the remaining kings of Judah. Everywhere a knowledge of the preceding books of the Bible is taken for granted, and many new and important facts are given. Scarcely anything is said about the northern kingdom, or about the sinful acts of David and Solomon. The great number of genealogies is accounted for by the need of such records that would be felt after the exile, when the land came to be assigned to its hereditary owners, and the temple service to be taken up by those whose hereditary duty it was.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – Is my name in the great muster-roll of the children of the promise?
- MONDAY – Saul “died for his transgression”; what fate do I deserve?
- TUESDAY. – Have I any presumptuous fear for the cause of God?

- SATURDAY – Nehemiah, chapters 1, 2, 3, 4. Nehemiah's return. Read the introduction to the book, given below.

Ezra and Nehemiah

From the fact that part of the book of Ezra is written in the first person, it is thought that Ezra himself wrote it. Others think that both this book and Nehemiah were written by others, but contain extracts from the first-hand accounts of the two leaders. In ancient times the two books were united, and in the Vulgate they are called First and Second Esdras. They are written in Hebrew, with the exception of certain letters and other quoted documents in Ezra, which are kept in the original Aramaic, or Chaldee. Ezra covers seventy-nine years, and Nehemiah, after an interval of about twelve years, continues the story.

- SATURDAY – Job, chapters 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. Bildad and Job.

Esther

It is not known who wrote this book. Some think it was Ezra; others, Mordecai. The language is Hebrew. It is one of the few books of the Bible that does not contain the name of God; possibly, as has been suggested, because it was intended for reading in Jewish houses on feast days, and the omission of the divine name on such occasions was thought more seemly. Ahasuerus is believed to have been Xerxes, and the feasts mentioned in the opening of the book may have been preliminary to his great expedition into Greece.

Job

Here we enter upon the poetical books, the Hebrew books of devotion. It is not known when Job was written, or by whom. Some say Moses. Others conjecture Solomon, Job himself, one of the prophets. The customs portrayed and the absence of references to later history point to the time of the patriarchs as the date of the book. Some identify Job with the Jobab of Genesis 10:29; others with the Jobab of Genesis 36:33. The language is Hebrew, with many approaches to the Arabic. The land of Uz is probably the northeast of Arabia. Ezekiel and St. James speak of Job as a historical personage. The poem itself is a noble discussion of the reasons for suffering. In speeches regularly recurring, each answered in turn by Job, the three friends of the patriarch urge that the cause of all suffering is sin. Elihu argues that all sorrow is certainly for the good of the sufferer, and at length God himself speaks, and Job becomes submissive and repentant.

The Psalms

The Psalms were written at different dates, from Moses to the close of the captivity— a thousand years. One psalm is attributed to Moses, seventy-three to David, two to Solomon, twelve to Asaph (one of David's musicians), eleven to the sons of Korah, and one each to Heman and Ethan. Thirteen titles tell on what occasion the psalm was written. Many titles contain musical terms and directions. A number of most precious psalms are prophetic of Christ, and are so used in the New Testament.

- SATURDAY – Proverbs, chapters 19, 20, 21, 22; 23. Rich and poor, etc.

The Proverbs

This collection of rules for the conduct of life is said to be Solomon's because he wrote most of them, just as the Psalms are said to be David's. The portions most certainly Solomon's are chapters 10-22. Chapters 25-29 are said to be his, but copied out by Hezekiah's wise men. Others are attributed to Agur and King Lemuel. The first six chapters form a connected discourse on wisdom, and the last chapter, vs. 10-31, is an acrostic poem.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – I should fill my whole life with thanksgiving.
- MONDAY – How I may make myself fit to join in the psalms of heaven.
- TUESDAY. – Have I made “the beginning of wisdom?” (Proverb 1:17.)

- SATURDAY – Isaiah, chapters 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. The Jerusalem vision. Read the introduction to the book, given below.

Ecclesiastes

It was formerly thought that Solomon wrote this book in his old age, and to express his penitence. Many scholars now hold that the language, style, and contents of the book point rather to a period after the return from captivity. The book is a review of the principal employments in which men are likely to engage, with the conclusion that a godly life is vastly preferable to them all.

The Song of Songs

Some hold this poem to have been written by Solomon as a marriage ode, and think its language typifies the union of Christ to his bride, the Church. Others think that the poem is an expression of the desire for national unity between Judah, represented by Shelomoh, the groom, and the ten tribes, represented by the bride Shulammith (the feminine form of Solomon). Read the poem in the Revised Version, which marks by paragraphs the alternation of the dialogue between the man and his lover.

Isaiah

This, the first of the prophetic books, is one of the most marvelous books ever written. Isaiah prophesied in Judea during four reigns, from B. C. 750 to B. C. 695— about 55 years. His times were times of great spiritual laxity, dark with threatened dangers. Nevertheless, he is called “the evangelical prophet,” because he foretold so grandly the coming of better days. A rough outline of the prophecies will be helpful: chapters 1-6, Israel’s sins; 7-12, “the book of Immanuel”; 13-23, prophecies against the nations; 24-35, the coming overthrow of evil; 36-39, Hezekiah’s triumph; 40-48, God and idols; 49-58, the coming Messiah; 59-66, a new heaven and a new earth.

Jeremiah

He was a priest, and he prophesied in Judea for forty years, – until Jerusalem was captured. In spite of his protests and warnings, the Jews, it is said, carried him to Egypt with them, and it is also said that he was stoned to death there because he opposed idolatry. He is the “weeping prophet,” the prophet of stern warnings. Chapter 1 is an introduction; chapters 2-11 may be the prophecies written by Baruch after Jehoiakim had burned the first roll; chapters 21-25 are brief notes of warning; 25-28 foretell the fall of Jerusalem; 29-31 relate to the Babylonian exile; 32-45 refer to the history of the two years before the fall of Jerusalem; 46-51 are prophecies against foreign nations, especially Babylon; 52, the conclusion, which some think was added by Ezra.

Lamentations

Jeremiah has always been set down as the author of this book, and indeed it must have been written by some one as familiar as Jeremiah was with all the details of the terrible siege of Jerusalem which it describes. The book consists of five separate dirges deploring the event. Chapters 1, 2, and 4 contain each of them 22 verses beginning with the 22 letters of the Hebrew alphabet. Chapter 5 also has 22 verses, but without the acrostical arrangement. Chapter 3 has 66 verses arranged in threes, each group beginning with a letter of the alphabet.

Ezekiel

Ezekiel, a priest, was carried away by Nebuchadnezzar after his second inroad into Judea, and prophesied for twenty-two years in a place about two hundred miles north of Babylon. It is said that he and Jeremiah exchanged manuscripts, for the edification respectively of the Jews in Jerusalem and in the captivity. Ezekiel's prophecies abound in visions and parables, and there are many touches of poetry. There are three divisions of the work: (1) chapters 1-24 consist of prophecies uttered before the fall of Jerusalem; (2) chapters 25-32, judgments upon seven heathen nations; (3) chapters 33-48, prophecies of the restoration.

Daniel

The mention of Daniel by Ezekiel, together with other considerations, would seem to prove that he was an actual historical personage, in spite of all that has been said by the students of the book. He was carried away in the first captivity, and spent in Babylon a long and most remarkable life. In the Hebrew Bible his book is classed not with the prophets, but with Ezra, Nehemiah, and the Chronicles. Roughly speaking, the first six chapters, the historical portion, are written in the Aramaic language and in the first person, and the last six chapters, the prophetic, in Hebrew and in the third person. The prophecies give the outlines of history from the time of Daniel to the time of Christ, with a most remarkable vision of the reign of the Messiah. There is close resemblance between this book and the Revelation of St. John.

Hosea

This is a prophet of the northern kingdom. His work extended through sixty years,—the reigns of the last six kings of Israel. It was a time of great vices, against which Hosea fearlessly inveighs. The book is quoted quite largely in the New Testament. Its vivid pages are full of images taken from the country and the home. Indeed, the central thought of all is the picture of his wife's unfaithfulness, as typifying the unfaithfulness of his nation.

- WEDNESDAY – Obadiah. The doom of Edom.
- THURSDAY – Jonah. The fruits of obedience.
- FRIDAY – Micah. Woes and promises.
- SATURDAY – Nahum. The doom of Nineveh,

Joel

He was a prophet of Judah, though of the tribe of Reuben. Scholars differ widely as to his date, in the time of Uzziah, in the time of Hezekiah, Manasseh, Josiah. Under the figure of the coming of locusts, he predicts the threatened invasion from Assyria, and in the last half of the book comforts the people with promise of final joy and triumph. Peter and Paul both quote from Joel.

Amos

A striking figure is this “herdsman and dresser of sycamore-trees.” A citizen of Judea, he dared to prophesy in the northern kingdom, at Bethel, the center of calf-worship, and at Samaria, foretelling the evils that their sin would bring upon the people, and meeting courageously the opposition of the chief priest, Amaziah. His prophecy is full of images taken from the fields. It opens with denunciations of the neighboring countries and of his own, especially of Samaria, passes to a series of remarkable visions, and closes with a message of hope.

Obadiah

Nothing is known of the personal story of this prophet, nor is it definitely known when he prophesied, some thinking that he taught before Jeremiah and gave him the key for his prophecies regarding Edom, and others that he prophesied after the fall of Jerusalem. On that occasion the Edomites, hereditary foes of the Jews, rejoiced in the capture of their capital, and joined with the Assyrians to prevent their escape. Obadiah predicts their ruin, and that his nation would come to possess their kingdom,— a prophecy largely fulfilled not many decades afterward.

Jonah

This prophet was born in the northern kingdom. The legends connect him with Elijah and Elisha, and he was the prophet who (2 Kings 14:25) gave Jeroboam II. his encouraging predictions. All that is known about him in addition is told in this account of his disobedience, his final faithfulness, the preaching at Nineveh, and the repentance of the great city. Christ refers thrice to this book.

Micah

He was born in Philistia, and prophesied for some half a century, during the reigns of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, boldly condemning the sins of Judah. Jeremiah makes reference to him, and so do several books of the New Testament. Each of the three divisions of his prophecies begins with "Hear ye," and with threatenings, and ends with comforting promises.

Nahum

Some think that he was an inhabitant of Galilee, and others that he was the son of one of the captives in Assyria. Some think that he prophesied in the time of Hezekiah, and others that he belongs to the time of Manasseh and Amon and Josiah. The burden of his prophecy is that Assyria is to be overthrown, and of this he makes three distinct predictions.

- THURSDAY – Zechariah, chapters 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. The true fast.
- FRIDAY – Zechariah, chapters 10, 11, 12, 13, 14. The Lord shall be King.
- SATURDAY – Malachi. The day cometh.

Habakkuk

Nothing is known of him, but from indications in his writings it is guessed that he was a Levite, that he prophesied in the reigns of Josiah and Jehoahaz, and that when Jerusalem fell he remained behind in his ruined country. The book is largely in the shape of an appeal to God for help against the threatened invasion of the Assyrians, together with God's reply. Paul received from this book his great watchword, "The just shall live by faith."

Zephaniah

He was a great-grandson of Hezekiah, and prophesied in the days of Josiah. Judea had partly turned to the true God, but idolatry still poisoned everything. Against this the prophet protests, adding strong appeals to the neighboring nations, and closing, as so many other prophets, with a word of hope, a prophecy of final victory.

Haggai

He was the first prophet after the exile, and when the rebuilding of the temple had been postponed for fourteen years through the machinations of the Samaritans, it was he who, in the three public addresses here recorded, spurred the people to complete their task. It is thought that he was older than Zechariah, who prophesied at the same time, and that he had seen the first temple.

Zechariah

Iddo, the priest, his grandfather, came with him from the exile, so that Zechariah must have been a young man when he prophesied. He began two months later than Haggai, and his prophecies cover two years, during which time he also was encouraging the people to complete the temple. The first portion of the book is occupied with visions colored with Persian imagery; the second part is a discussion of the nature of a true fast; and the third portion, which some think may have been written much earlier than the rest of the book, pictures the coming glory of the nation and the reign of the Messiah. Naturally there are many references to this book in the New Testament.

Malachi

He is called “the seal” of the prophets, being the last of the great series. Nothing is known of his history, though it is thought that he was a priest. He must have written after the second return, and probably he prophesied during the time when Nehemiah had returned to the Persian court and many abuses broke out. These abuses Malachi rebukes, especially the priestly corruption and the marriages with the heathen, and closes his prophecy and the Old Testament with a glorious anticipation of the coming Messiah.

Matthew

Of the four Gospels, written by the four evangelists, the first three are called the “synoptical” Gospels, because they present a view of Christ’s life more or less connected. John's supplements them. We know nothing of Matthew except that he was a Hebrew tax-collector, the circumstances of his call by Christ, and the story of his feast. It is said that he wrote first in Aramaic, but we have only the translation into Greek, which was made not long after the middle of the first century. The main purpose of the Gospel is to show his fellow Jews that Christ sums up in himself all they had expected and the prophets had foretold of the promised Messiah. Naturally, there are many quotations from the Old Testament— as many as 65.

Mark

John Mark was the nephew or cousin of Barnabas, and though estranged from Paul at one time, he became his beloved friend. Peter is thought to have superintended the writing of this Gospel. The frequent explanations of Jewish terms, the omission of reference to Jewish law and of Christ's genealogy, and the use of several Latin words, all point to the purpose of the book to aid the Gentiles, and favor the tradition that it was written at Rome and for the Romans. It must have been written before the destruction of Jerusalem. Mark's great word is "immediately," which he uses forty-one times, and his Gospel is one of rapid movement and many graphic touches, impetuous as Peter himself.

Luke

Luke, the physician, the friend of Paul and sharer in his imprisonments, may have been a manumitted slave and a Syrian of Antioch. His writings – the Gospel and the Acts – are the best history of the church we possess. The Gospel was probably written between A. D. 60 and A. D. 70. He used many sources of information, and doubtless he was more or less dominated by the spirit of Paul. The Gospel is intended for all, but especially for the Greeks. This is the most complete Gospel. In this Gospel women appear most often. It preserves for us a number of most beautiful hymns. It uses many words peculiar to Luke, which serve to bind together the Gospel and the Acts, and prove them to be by one author.

John

This Gospel was certainly written by the Beloved Disciple, and probably between A. D. 80 and A. D. 90. The place where he wrote was doubtless Ephesus. The book duplicates comparatively little of the material of the other Gospels, and where it does so, it adds many interesting details. John gives no parables, omits the accounts of the birth, baptism, temptation, transfiguration, and ascension. On the other hand, his Gospel is rich in noble discourses, and above all, in the wonderful final discourse of the Master. If it were not for John, we should know little about any but a single year of Christ's ministry, and the scenes in Galilee. John's is the great spiritual and doctrinal Gospel.

Acts

This book was written by Luke, who dedicated it to the same man – Theophilus– whom he named in his Gospel. The book of Acts has been called “the Gospel of the Spirit.” Luke probably wrote it at Rome, and about A. D. 62, since the history closes about A. D. 61, and since the fall of Jerusalem is not alluded to. The Greek title, “Acts,” or “Acts of Apostles,” is more correct than “the Acts of the Apostles,” as the lives of only two apostles are treated, and the book may well be divided at chapter 13:3 between the acts of Peter and the acts of Paul.

Romans

When at Corinth in his missionary journey, A. D. 58, Paul took advantage of Phoebe’s going to Rome to send by her a letter to the brethren whom he had been planning to visit. Some of these brethren probably had been converted on the Day of Pentecost, and others Paul may have met on his journeys. He had just written to the Galatians, and in his letter continues and expounds more fully the great doctrine of justification by faith. Much of the letter is taken up with the questions which would perplex Christians in Rome, such as God’s design for the future of the Jews, and the relation of Christians to idolatrous practices. The letter closes with many practical exhortations.

First Corinthians

From Ephesus, A. D. 57, during his third missionary journey, Paul wrote this letter to the church which he had established at Corinth five years before. Corinth, in the focus of trade east and west, north and south, was a cosmopolitan city, and the church was made up of many different classes who soon split into parties, the Jews favoring Peter, others Paul, others Apollos, others simply Christ. Paul writes to counsel unity and also to rebuke the excesses of the church. The immediate cause of the letter was the coming to Paul of a committee from the church at Corinth, whose many questions the apostle here answers,

The closing chapters of this book reach the loftiest eloquence, the deepest philosophy.

Second Corinthians

Forced from Ephesus by the riot, Paul went to Macedonia, where Titus found him and told him of the effect of his first letter to Corinth. In the main his reproofs and injunctions had been heeded, but the Jewish party, reinforced by some high authority, had been attacking him with great violence and malice. Thereupon Paul wrote this sturdy epistle as a defense. It constitutes a magnificent picture of his strenuous life. The date was early in A. D. 58, and the place of writing was probably Philippi.

Galatians

In A. D. 58, either in Macedonia or after he had gone down to Corinth, Paul wrote to the Christians in Galatia, a church he had founded in A. D. 52, while detained there by sickness on his second missionary journey, afterwards visiting it on his third journey. The country was settled by Gauls driven from Italy and Greece, but Greeks' Romans, and Jews had come to live among them. The Jews had made trouble in the church by insisting on circumcision and the Mosaic law, and declaring Paul nothing as compared with Peter. Paul wrote this letter to show how the coming of Christ had introduced a new dispensation, not of law, but of grace; and he gives his first sketch of the doctrine of justification by faith and not by works.

Ephesians

This was written from Rome about A. D. 63, during Paul's first imprisonment. Paul had lived three years in the luxurious Asiatic capital of Ephesus, and had done much to break the power of the great temple of Diana. There are no personal greetings in the letter, and so it is believed to have been a circular one, intended to be passed around among several churches. It is an epistle of general exhortation and counsel, especially fitted to those that had lately come from heathenism and were still exposed to its temptations.

Philippians

This, like the preceding, was written from Rome during Paul's first imprisonment. It is a letter of gratitude sent by Epaphroditus, who had brought to Paul some generous gifts from the church. This church was the first established in Europe. Read the story in the Acts of the conversion of Lydia and afterwards of the jailer and his family. We have knowledge that Paul visited this church at least twice again.

Colossians

This letter also was written at Rome during Paul's first imprisonment, and it was sent by Tychicus and Onesimus, who were going to Asia. Epaphras from Colossae had visited Paul at Rome, and told him about his fellow Colossians whom Paul had never seen. Epaphras himself may have brought them the gospel from Paul while the apostle was at Ephesus. Paul's main purpose in the letter was to warn the Colossian Christians against a heresy that had crept into their church.

First Thessalonians

This is Paul's earliest epistle, being written at Corinth late in A. D. 52, in the course of his second missionary journey. The preceding year Paul and Silas had founded the church in this large commercial center, first laboring with the Jews and then turning to the Gentiles. From this church Silas and Timothy came to Paul at Corinth, and told him many good things about the Thessalonians; but also some bad news, especially that, through looking for the immediate coming of Christ in the heavens, many of them had given up work and fallen into disorder. Paul wrote to correct these abuses.

Second Thessalonians

This second epistle was also written from Corinth, and not long after the first. It is occupied with the same theme as the first letter, for Paul had learned that the Christians of Thessalonica were still excited and disturbed over the expected second advent.

First Timothy

After the first imprisonment at Home, which Timothy shared with him, Paul returned to Asia Minor with this beloved young man and established him in charge of the church at Ephesus. This was a very difficult post on account of the licentious worship of Diana at the great temple, and because of heresies which had crept into the church itself. This letter, written by Paul probably from Macedonia, for which he had left Asia Minor, is a general epistle of instruction on the conduct of his ministry. The date lies between 64 and 67 A. D.

Second Timothy

This is the last of Paul's writings. It was written during his second imprisonment at Rome, between 66 and 68 A. D. It gives some particulars we should not otherwise know about this second imprisonment and trial, and about Paul's life and the condition of the church between his first and this final imprisonment. Though urging Timothy to make all speed to Rome, Paul knows that he may never see the young man again, and sends him some earnest parting messages.

Titus

Titus, a Greek, was in charge of the church in Crete; a church exposed to many dangers from the lying, immorality, and fickleness of the people. Paul wrote this letter at some time between A. D. 64 and A. D. 67, to give him just about such counsel as he gave Timothy in his first letter to him. Probably Paul had won Titus on his first missionary journey. He was not circumcised, and Paul took him up to that momentous council at Jerusalem, that the necessity for circumcision might be decided. Paul had sent him several times as his ambassador to Corinth.

Philemon

This is the only one of Paul's letters which is of a strictly private and personal nature, and yet it is full of beauty and instruction. Onesimus, a runaway slave, was converted by Paul at Rome. Paul induced him to go back to his former master, Philemon, a Christian of Colossae, there to receive whatever punishment might be inflicted. He was sending by Tychicus a letter to the church at Colossae, and gave him also this letter to explain matters to Philemon and beg his favor on behalf of Onesimus.

Hebrews

It is not known who wrote this epistle—possibly Paul, since the thought and language are in some points like his; but it has been attributed to Luke, to Apollos, to Barnabas. Various indications point to a date between A. D. 64 and A. D. 67. At any rate, it was written before the fall of Jerusalem, as it speaks of the temple worship as still going on. It was written probably to the Hebrew Christians of Palestine, and to comfort them in their persecutions. They had lost, in accepting Christ, much that was sacred to them. Paul devotes himself to showing how far Christ is superior to them all— to angels, Moses, the ancient priesthood, taking these points in order. The apostle goes on to contrast the glorious new covenant with the old one, and closes with a splendid picture of faith and of other virtues.

James

The author of this epistle, our Lord's brother according to the flesh, was a Jew of the stricter sort, and in his letter urges the most sincere and thorough-going Christian living. The letter is the first of the "general epistles,"— those of James, Peter, John, and Jude,— so called because they are not addressed to any particular church. The letter of James, for instance, was written for all the Christian Jews that had been scattered from Jerusalem over the world. It is a letter full of the most practical wisdom.

First Peter

Peter's later work, after that in Palestine with which the Acts makes us acquainted, was in Asia Minor; and this letter is addressed to the Jewish Christians of those provinces. Several references in the letter seem to show that the Christians were then undergoing persecution— probably that instigated by Nero; and this epistle was written to convert and encourage them. The date may be about 63 A. D.

- FRIDAY – In sorrow and joy (James 5:13).
- SATURDAY – How should I be a partaker of Christ's sufferings? (1 Peter 4:13.)

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Make a list of the most important changes Christianity would work in the religion of a converted Jew.
- MONDAY – Study the many ways in which the Mosaic ritual and the temple pointed forward to Christ.
- TUESDAY – What names can you add from the Old Testament to the catalogue of the heroes of faith?
- WEDNESDAY – Study the arguments for and against the Pauline authorship of the letter to the Hebrews.
- THURSDAY – Look up and clearly distinguish in your mind the different Jameses mentioned in the New Testament.
- FRIDAY – In connection with 1 Peter 1:20 learn what the Bible says about Christ as a part of God's plan of redemption.
- SATURDAY – In connection with chapter 3, study what the New Testament says about the relation of husband and wife.

The Fifty-First Week

Sections for Daily Reading

- SUNDAY – 2 Peter. The great addition. Read the introduction to each book before the book is read.
- MONDAY – 1 John. God is love.
- TUESDAY – 2 John. Love one another.
- WEDNESDAY – 3 John. Fellow workers.
- THURSDAY – Jude. Contend for the faith.
- FRIDAY – Review the General Epistles, giving titles to the chapters, and mark the passages you especially wish to remember.
- SATURDAY – Revelation, chapters 1, 2, 3. The messages to the churches.

Second Peter

This letter was probably addressed to the same persons for whom Peter wrote his former epistle; and though the date is uncertain, several references in the letter point to a time just before Peter's death. The epistle is an exhortation to faith in a well-proved gospel. Peter's reference to Paul is most noteworthy.

First John

This, “the most independent of place and time and circumstance of all the writings in the New Testament,” is an appendix to the Gospel of John, being a further unfolding of many of the unique truths there set forth. John probably wrote it at Ephesus toward the close of his long life; that is, in one of the last years of the first century. It was quite certainly written for the churches in Asia, to which the apostle ministered.

Second John

This very brief letter repeats some of the teachings of the first epistle. It is addressed to " the elect lady and her children," by which some think John meant the church, and others think he meant an actual person. Neither explanation is wholly satisfactory. Date and place of writing are also unknown, though probably the same as those of the first letter.

Third John

Several persons named Gaius or Caius are mentioned in the New Testament, but none of these can be identified with the person to whom John wrote this letter. There is no reason for assigning it to a date or place different from those of the first two epistles.

Jude

The Jude who wrote this epistle was doubtless the brother of our Lord according to the flesh, and therefore the brother of the James who wrote the epistle we have just read. Probably he is addressing the same audience that James addressed –the depressed Jewish Christians, whom he urges to hold fast to the faith in spite of false teachers and many temptations. A comparison of this epistle with the second letter of Peter will show many points of similarity.

The Revelation

The Revelation, or the “Apocalypse,” is the only prophetic book in the New Testament. It was undoubtedly written by John, and probably during his exile on the island of Patmos. There is the widest divergence of belief, however, as to the date of the writing, some thinking it was written possibly as early as A. D. 68, others placing it near the close of John’s life. There are many points of agreement in the thoughts and the spirit of the Gospel and the Revelation, but the former is written in much purer Greek than the latter. After a brief introduction, followed by the messages to the seven churches of Asia Minor, the greater part of the book is occupied with seven series of visions. The meaning of many of these is undetermined, though the general teaching– the ultimate triumph of the church – is entirely clear; and the book is full of comfort and inspiration.

For Meditation as You Read

- SUNDAY – How far have I gone in Peter’s addition table? (2 Peter 1:5-7.)
- MONDAY – Am I " laying down my life " (1 John 3:16) for any one?
- TUESDAY – How closely am I " abiding in the teaching of Christ "? (2 John 9.)
- WEDNESDAY – How much am I doing " for the sake of the Name " (3 John 7)?
- THURSDAY – “Without spot or blemish” (Jude 23,24).
- FRIDAY – How wonderfully all these evidences and memorials of Christ and of the early church have been preserved for us!
- SATURDAY – Which of the seven churches am I most like?

For Further Study If You Have Time

- SUNDAY – Scan the epistles of Peter for hidden references to his life with Christ, and for tokens of his character as disclosed by the Gospels.
- MONDAY – Trace the correspondence between First John and John’s Gospel.
- TUESDAY – See how much of the thought of Second John you can find in First John.
- WEDNESDAY – Look up the other persons named Gaius or Caius in the New Testament.
- THURSDAY – Look up the references in the Gospels to our Lord’s brethren.
- FRIDAY – Make in your Bible a table of all the Epistles, arranging them in their probable chronological order.
- SATURDAY – Study what is known about the history of the seven churches, and the fulfillment of this prediction concerning them.

How Can You Find Peace With God?

The most important thing to grasp is that no one is made right with God by the good things he or she might do. Justification is by faith only, and that faith resting on what Jesus Christ did. It is by believing and trusting in His one-time substitutionary death for your sins.

Read your Bible steadily. God works His power in human beings through His Word. Where the Word is, God the Holy Spirit is always present.
